

Unions around the country often have products printed for their members. Whether they are sold by the union or given away at meetings and conventions, they all should have one thing in common. The union “bug.”

The Union Label and Service Trades Department, AFL-CIO frequently receives requests for a list of union printers and providers of promotional products. We have included a very small sampling of union providers here.

www.cwaprintshops.com is a website that allows you to submit a request for a bid from union vendors for all of your printing needs. The site is run by the Printing, Publishing and Media Workers Sector-CWA (PPMWS). Other unions, including the International Union of Painters and Allied Trades (IUPAT), the United Auto Workers (UAW), the International Association of Machinists and Aerospace Workers (IAMAW) and the Graphic Communications Conference (GCC-Teamsters) represent members that produce promotional products and printed materials. Check with those unions for more information.
